

Dave White's Wings of the Best Jordans Shoes from 2011 was one of the most original designs we had seen on the Jordan I in quite some time. Blending patriotic vibes and ditching the swoosh on the quarter, the shoe in itself is actually a piece of artwork. As many who know of the shoe are aware of, the shoe that went to retail was the second Wings of the Future collab between Dave White and Jordan, with the first being auction only and limited to 23 pairs. However, there were apparently other versions that were left on the cutting room floor.

The Jordan 4 For Sale "Flyknit" is the latest in updated tech and materials that MJ's First takes on. Though we have seen the shoe in classic "Banned" and "Royal" colorways, we have yet to see any non-OG colorways. However, recently this has been rectified with the latest colorway.

Both pairs featured a Cheap Curry 4 patent leather upper with leather swooshes. In the SF-AF1's case, the shoe features its usual Ballistic Leather on the rear of the shoe, and the paracord and nylon straps. In the case of the AF1, there is regular leather utilized for the quarter and backtab. Both shoes sit on a white midsole contrasted by a burgundy outsole.
