

FIFA 18 Premier League TOTS Predictions For rewarding the Premier League players who make stunning performances in 2016/18 season, fifa coins comprar Premier League TOTS will be released into FIFA packs at the beginning of May. Who have been the best players so far in the Premier League this season? Which Premier League stars are highly qualified to make the team of the season so far? Here is our FIFA 18 Team Of The Season Predictions for Premier League. De Gea is one of the best keepers in all the entire world and he has continued his fine form in the nets for United, achieving 10 clean sheets in 26 Premier League appearances. The 26-year-old is enjoying another fine season and flashed all of his talent in the FA Cup match against Chelsea. Walker has started all but one of Tottenham's top-flight fixtures this season and is a key cog in Pochettino's defensive unit.

The England international has made impressive strides defensively in recent years but his attacking output is still the right-back's greatest strength. He has created 1.5 chances per game this season, resulting in four assists thus far. McAuley has played a key role in Albion's success so far this campaign, playing every minute of every game. He is also the club's joint-leading scorer along with striker Salomon Rondon after netting his seventh goal. Seven goals from a 37-year-old defender. How hard it is but that wasn't in the fast-paced Premier League. He's been so consistent the club obviously think he can keep on doing it because they're giving him a new deal. You wouldn't put it past him carrying on for longer. Click Here