

We knew it was going to be an important year for the Air Jordan XIII in regards to the return of the 'Chutney' Low that will be making its return to shelves and the 'History of Flight' Buty Jordan Sklep getting to see the light of day, and even the 'Black Cat' Air Jordan XIII that built a following prior to its release but, many of us didn't expect to see the 'Bred' colorway to make a late summer comeback this year after being gone since 2013. Much respect to s.sam.group for leaking the images of the 2017 version of the kicks so we can at least get an idea of what we're working with in terms of execution and quality and from the initial looks of these joints, they're pretty well crafted from what we can see thus far.

We have been seeing a lot from Buty Jordan Damskie Irving during this post season, and in addition to his current tour of Asia, he is also continuing to release his signature sneakers with Nike. A ton of colorways of the sneaker have been dropping all year and today we take a look at the latest installment. Up next the shoe will be getting the "Aqua" treatment which many often dub the "Tiffany's" colorway.

As we all wait for some OKC colorways of the Barato Air Max Venta, Nike is preparing a colorway that is nearly all red. The Nike PG 1 'University Red' features a red mesh and suede upper with accents of black and white. The Nike "Swoosh" is done in black while the mid-sole is done in white. The cross strap and outsole are represented in black as well. The "PG" branding is done in white on the tongue and red on the outsole. This shoe is finished off with red laces and black speckles on the mid-sole.