

It's obvious to us now that ronnie Best Jordans Shoes Nike Air Maestro is going to pay tribute to Scottie Pippen's Career, with a pair highlighting his days in college at University of Central Arkansas, and his Olympic pair. Now we have a pair playing tribute to his iconic Red ASG pair. Teased on Ronnie Fieg's instagram was this all red pair which is similar to the OG pair. Aside from the detailing that they updated for this model, this pair features red suede instead of the leather on the OG pair. The announcement comes via German retailer Good Will Out. Latest Jordans Shoes They've got a countdown live on their website at the moment and the site is sure to have some crash issues once these drop. Now, it's worth noting that there's no official word via Nike about this restock. More importantly, we're not sure if the OG Red's return will be exclusive to Europe. That being said, it's still nice to see one of the more lauded AM 1 iteration make a comeback.

Similar to the "Cheap Jordan Shoes" Valentine's Day 12 of last year, we will get a Pink AJ XII. This pair will also feature a leather upper, however, this pair will have it in black instead of white. The mudguard will be done in the Hot Pink color, with a pink outsole. Lastly, the shoe is completed with silver eyelets, and a grey TPU piece on the midfoot.