

Pharrell, Best Jordans Shoes and Shay Haley brought back their group N.E.R.D. this year, and even performed at ComplexCon this past weekend. Commemorating the return, adidas Originals and Pharrell released an exclusive NERD x adidas NMD Hu Trail at ComplexCon 2017. The black and grey shoe was raffled off at the event, and a few lucky winners scored a pair, in addition to the few pairs released. Not even a week after the shoe dropped, the shoe has appeared on Stadium Goods for a pretty penny. $9,900. There are multiple pairs up for that price, so if you've got money to blow, you can get them now.

Latest Jordans Shoes has been knocking it out of the park with Knit based runners and their more Euro-styled shoes. The German brand is set to drop another set of runners in the upcoming weeks. The first pair we have unveiled is the Puma Jamming Cushion. The shoe utilizes a evoKnit upper, with a more modern lacing system all sitting on a cushioned outsole. The first colorway to drop will be in the Olive Green colorway, and will hit retailers tomorrow, Nov. 9.

Last week Cheap Jordan Shoes reintroduced their City Sock NMD in the "Shock Pink" pack. More often than not, the R1 and R2 models have released in abundance, while the CS1 and CS2 have come and gone. Taking less time off between releases, the CS1 is back and with a new theme. Introducing the "Gore-Tex" on the to City Sock 1, the NMD takes on a rugged and durable, yet clean Black, or white and grey primeknit structure. Black bumpers accent the Boost midsole and black lined outsole for a more striking appearance.