

1. "Concord" Air Jordan 11 retail 2018 at $220.

following initial rumblings a few months back, the fan favorite "Concord" Air Jordan 11 looks like it is going to be one of next year's annual holiday releases.

According to leakers such as soleheatonfeet, the "Concord" 11 will make its return around October or November 2018. Expect this classic black and white colorway of MJ's eleventh signature model to feature a remastered construction with a higher cut of patent leather like has been seen on other recent Retro 11 releases. Other possibilities for this release could be a swap of the "23" on the back heel for a "45" to match Jordan's 1995 PE a detail that would certainly be welcomed by Jordan Brand fanatics.

No official word on pricing as of yet, but expect the new jordans 2018 "Concord" Air Jordan 11 to retail at $220.

Note: The pair pictured is the retro release from 2011, not the upcoming 2018 pair.

2. Air Jordan 1 Retro High OG "Game Royal"

Older sneakerheads may remember this upcoming colorway of the Air Jordan 1 Retro from a questionable "sample" photo that used to make rounds on forums like ISS and basket ball shoes

. The colorway will soon become the real deal, with an expected early-2018 launch on the horizon.

Essentially a blue-based "Chicago" colorway, retro sports a palette of Game Royal, white and black. OG designation is there, meaning Nike Air branding will be featured on the tongue.
